

HL1001: Introduction to the Study of Literature

Lecturer: Dr. Kevin Riordan (kriordan@ntu.edu.sg)

Tutors: TBD

Lecture: Tuesdays 14:30–16:30 (Virtual)

Office Hours (HSS 03-72): Email for an appointment

Course Description

HL1001 is an introduction to the study of literature at the tertiary level. The course's primary goal is to further develop students' critical reading and writing skills. With the readings, we will pay particular attention to questions of form, style, and context. Through the written assignments, students will become comfortable and confident with the conventions of academic writing while working to develop compelling and well-supported arguments. As we read across a wide range of genres and traditions, our discussions will be focused thematically on the place of literature and the ways in which it travels. This class will call on you to be curious, creative, inquisitive, reflective, and critical.

Core texts:

Shakespeare, The Tempest (Folger)
Shelley, Frankenstein (Dover)
Coetzee, Foe (Penguin)
Supplementary Readings on NTU Learn

Course Assessment:

Paper 1 (Textual Analysis)	15%
Paper 2 (Comparative Analysis)	20%
Writing Portfolio	15%
Tutorial Preparation & Participation	15%
Online Participation	10%
Final Test	25%

Final Test: The final test will contain essay questions about Coetzee's Foe and Beckett's Endgame as well as short answer questions drawing on the entire course.

Late Policy: All written work is due in soft copy (on NTU Learn) at the start of class. Late work will be accepted within twenty-four hours for a reduced grade and it will receive no instructor comments.

Plagiarism Policy: Plagiarism of any kind is unacceptable. For more details see the School's notice: <http://www.soh.ntu.edu.sg/Programmes/Undergraduate/current/Pages/Plagiarism.aspx>

Prospective Itinerary

Week 1 – Situating Ourselves

August 11 – Course Introduction

Week 2 – Here and There

August 18 – Kincaid, from A Small Place; Lahiri, “The Interpreter of Maladies;” Jin, “After Cowboy Chicken Came to Town”

Week 3 – Landing on an Island

August 25 – Shakespeare, selected sonnets and The Tempest

Week 4 – Leaving the Island

September 1 – Shakespeare, The Tempest

Week 5 – Questions of Travel

September 8 – Wordsworth, Preface to the Lyrical Ballads; selected Romantic poetry
Draft of Essay 1 Due in Tutorial

Week 6 – Letters from Afar

September 15 – Shelley, Frankenstein
Essay 1 Due in Lecture

Week 7 – Onwards and Outwards

September 22 – Shelley, Frankenstein

Reading Recess

Week 8 – Moving Pictures and Poetry (Virtual Lecture)

October 6 – Selected modern poetry

Week 9 – From Space to Time

October 13 – La Jetée Viewing
Essay 2 Proposal Due in Tutorial

Week 10 – Out of Space and Time

October 20 – Beckett, Endgame

Week 11 – Still There

October 27 – Beckett, Endgame
Essay 2 Due in Lecture

Week 12 – Island Returns

November 3 – Coetzee, Foe

Week 13 – Ways of Ending

November 10 – Coetzee, Foe

November 15 – Writing Portfolio Due

Final Test: Friday November 20, 9 am